VINTAGE STYLE

Showroom Entrance

Vintage interior design often involves combining pieces from different time periods and styles, creating an eclectic and curated look.

Personal Touch: While vintage interior design draws inspiration from the past, it's important to infuse your personal style into the space to make it feel uniquely yours.

ZEN STYLING

In Japanese, Zen refers to meditation.

In interior design, it reflects balance, harmony and relaxation.

Although Zen interior design is not a proper design style and does not come with strict rules, it is often associated with Minimalism, simplicity and purity of lines. It is more a way of arranging a home and creating an atmosphere that offsets the stress and hassle of daily routine.

VICTORIAN STYLE

Dining Room

Victorian style is characterized by rich, dark jewel tones: deep reds, blues, greens, purples, golds, even black. It's heavy on the wood, too, with dark paneling and wood floors and accents in mahogany and walnut.

Fabrics: Choose from a wide variety of period reproduction and vintage fabrics and trims from printed floral chintzes and toiles to silk damasks and velvets.

Patterns: Complex patterns often cover every surface of a Victorian home. From multiple wallpapers to luxurious fabrics and oriental rugs, Victorian interior design uses patterns lavishly throughout the home. Patterns range from flora and fauna to geometric patterns, stripes, damasks, and more.

BOHEMIAN STYLE

Bohemian or Boho decorating is for those who want their homes full of life, culture, and interesting items for all the world to see. This aesthetic flies in the face of modern sensibilities and embraces the carefree, relaxed, and the unusual. Boho rooms tend to have certain similarities in that they are always eclectic and share similar features though no two rooms are ever completely alike.

MID CENTURY STYLE

The most popular mid-century modern style, contemporary homes featured clean lines, floor-to-ceiling windows, and more natural, organic feeling materials, like wood, stone, and brick. Many of these homes have asymmetrical exteriors with windows extending to the roofline and exposed ceilings and beams in the interior.

Organic: A smaller subset of mid-century modern architects put an emphasis on blending their homes into their natural surroundings.

SCANDAVIAN STYLE

Dinning and living room

The Scandinavian interior design is characterized by minimalism, simplicity, and functionality. Although the Scandinavian design has been around since the 1950s, it still remains a popular trend in interior design today. It also includes the use of natural materials, such as leather, wood, and hemp. Furthermore, a Scandinavian interior design is often influenced by a connection to nature, which combines natural shapes, abstraction, and the use of natural elements.

MINIMALIST STYLE

What is Minimalism?

Minimalism is rooted in an art movement in the 1960s, and it later expanded into the design and architectural aesthetic most commonly associated with simplicity, neutral color palettes, and clean lines

Clear All Surfaces of Clutter

For every item that comes into your home, something else should go out in turn.

MOROCCAN STYLE

Moroccan style is a vibrant, culturally rich design aesthetic known for its bold colors, intricate geometric patterns, and luxurious textures, blending Berber, Arabic, and Mediterranean influences to create warm, inviting, and exotic spaces through elements like mosaic tiles, ornate lanterns, carved wood, low furniture, and rich textiles. It emphasizes craftsmanship, history, and sensory details,

CONTEMPORARY STYLE

Formal living room

Fundamentally, a contemporary style of decorating is defined by simplicity, subtle sophistication, deliberate use of texture, and clean lines. Interiors tend to showcase space rather than things

TUSCAN STYLE

Living area

Tuscan interior design is a style that invokes the warmth, charm, and rustic elegance of the Tuscany region of Italy. Rooted in the beauty of the Italian countryside, Tuscan interiors reflect an old-world sensibility combined with a rich color palette, natural materials, and a relaxed atmosphere.

TRADITIONAL STYLE

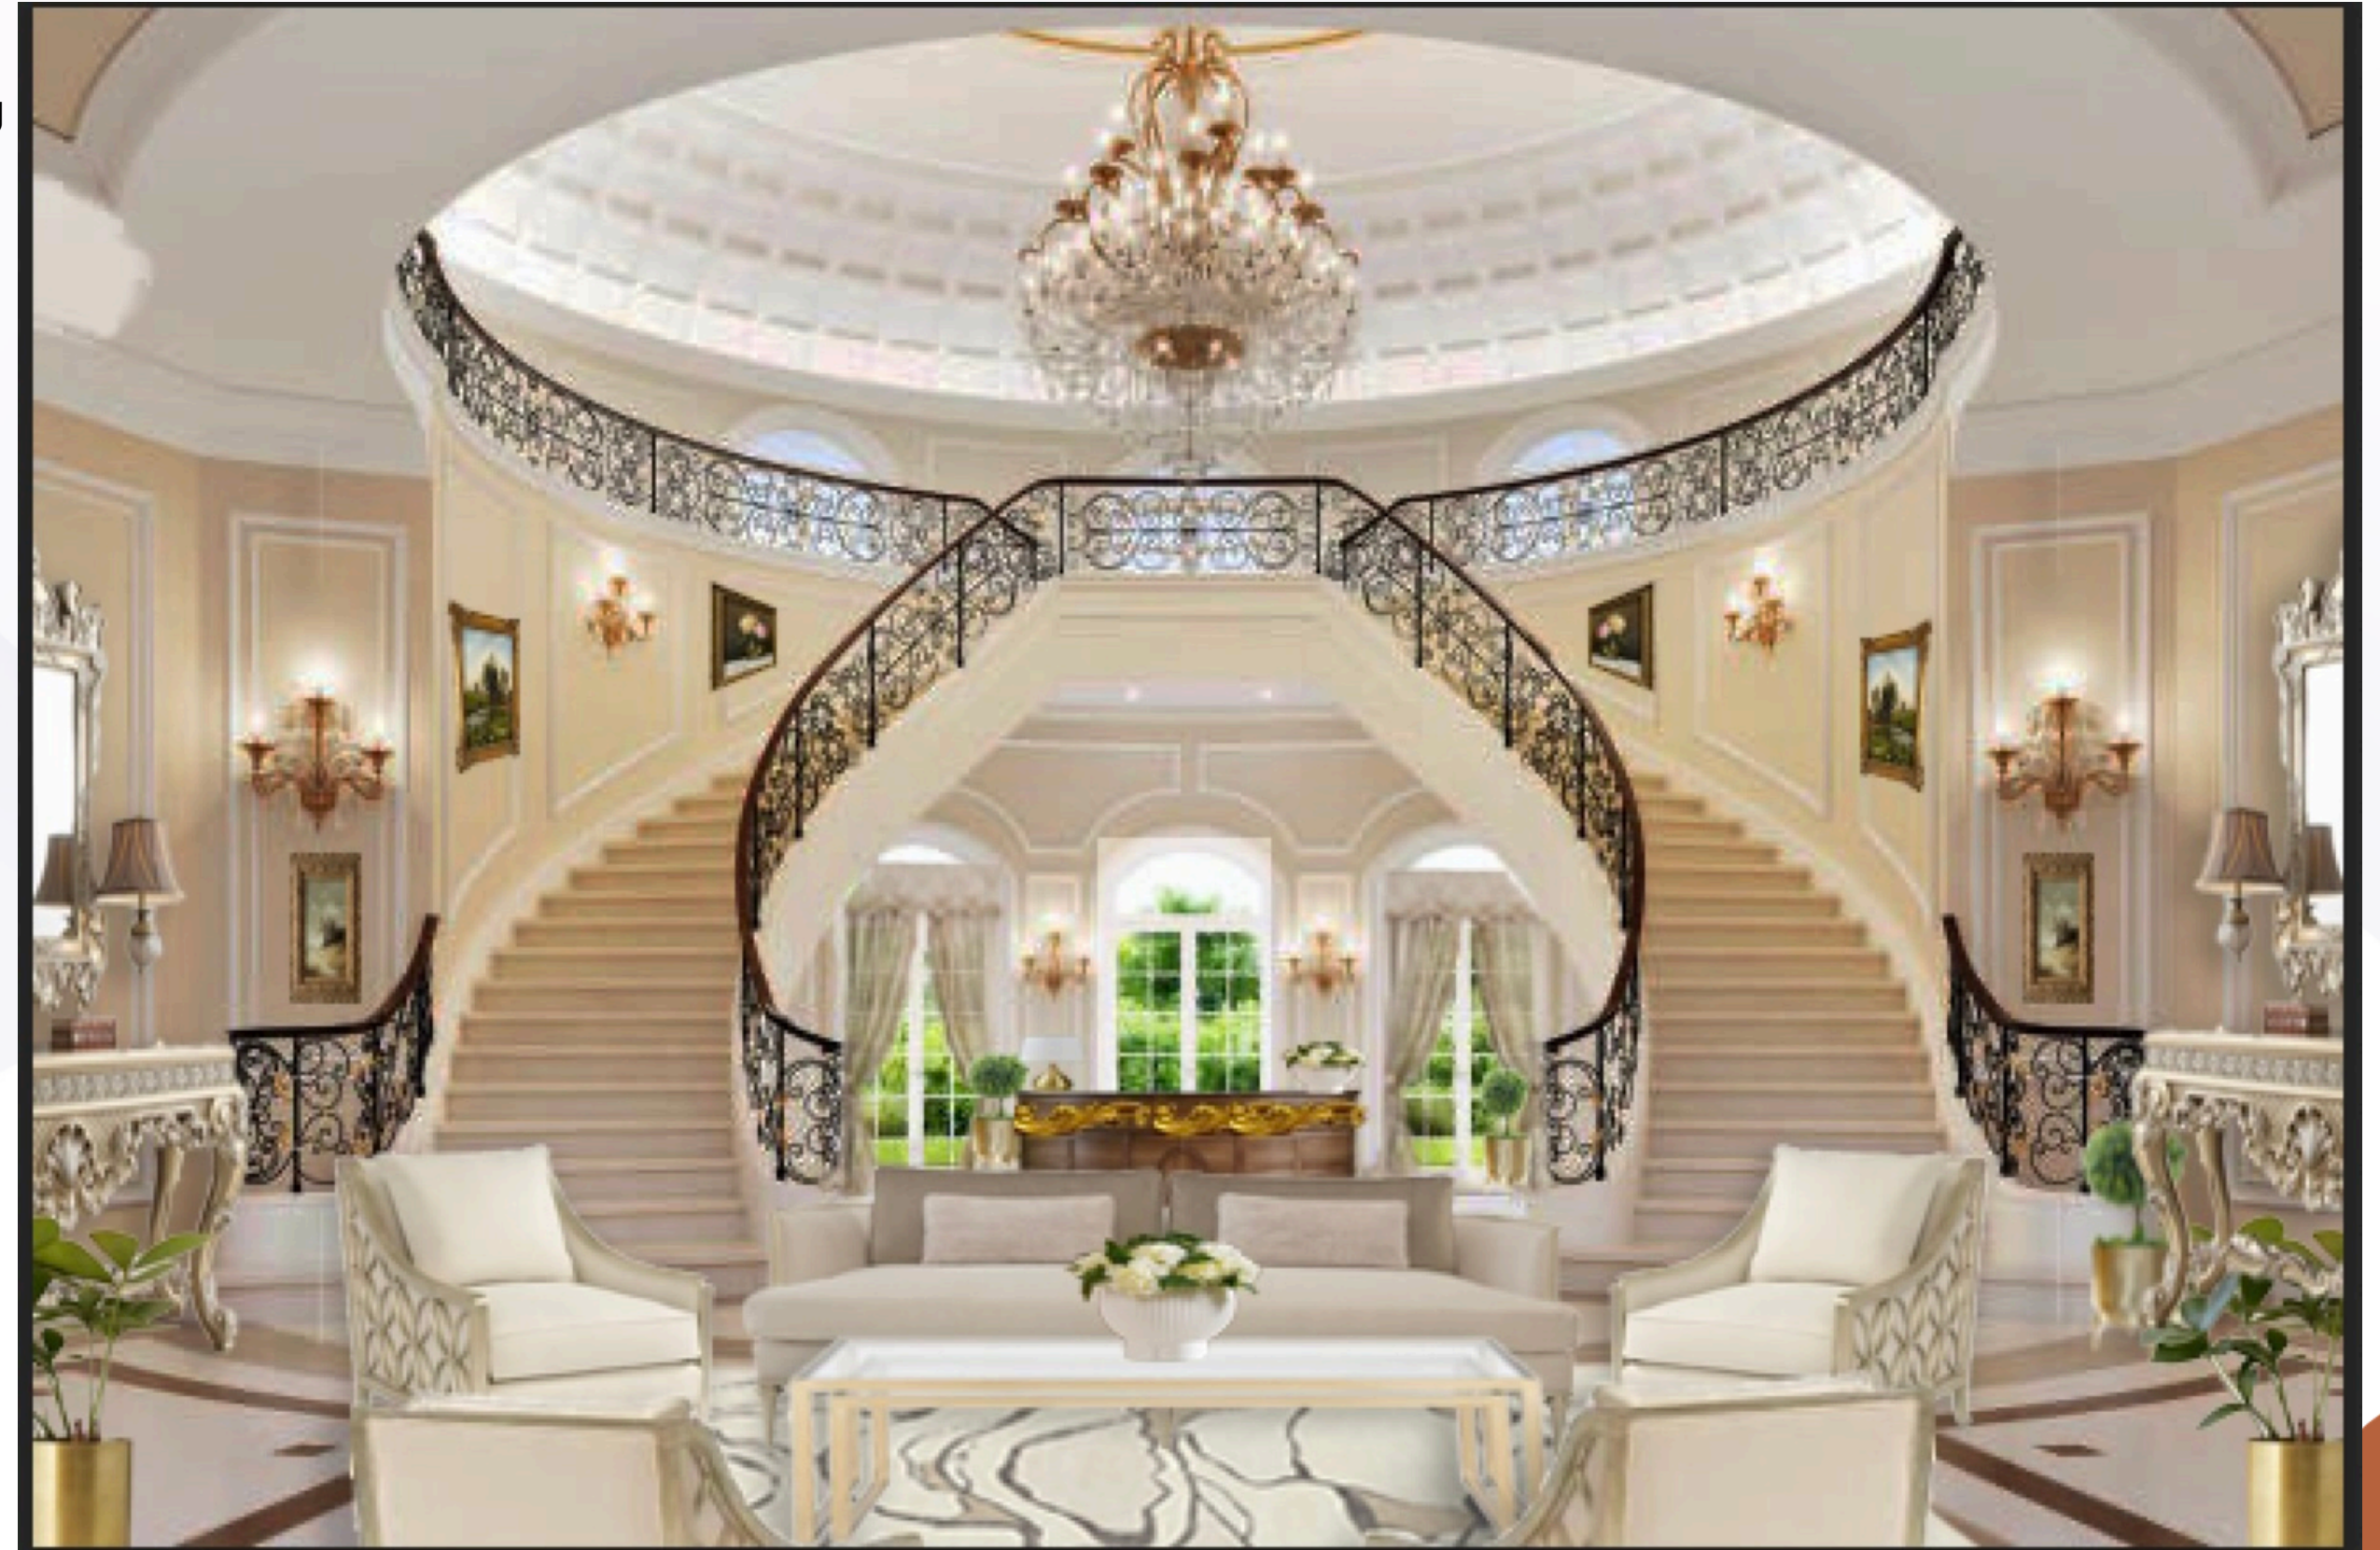

Hotel Lobby

Traditional decorating is calm, orderly, and predictable. There is nothing wild or chaotic in a traditional room. Furnishings are classic and might feel outdated. Nothing is a surprise. Pieces match and are consistent.

Furniture and accessories are placed in pairs and centered in the room. There is nothing out of place or of a different style. Everything has the look that it goes together.

Traditional rooms are not ostentatious but rather somewhat casual. Furniture pieces are often reproductions. Modern, eclectic pieces have no room in a traditional space.

Traditional style homes feel comfortable for any age group. It's a familiar look that you'd see in magazines or furniture showrooms. A traditional room is not a place to showcase a piece of modern art or stainless steel furniture.

FRENCH COUNTRY STYLE

French Country designs all about creating a feeling of warmth, comfort, and unpretentious elegance. Inspired by the natural beauty of the French countryside, it embraces a relaxed, lived-in atmosphere. One of its key features is the use of natural materials – weathered wood, stone like limestone or terracotta, linen, and cotton – which add texture and a sense of connection to the outdoors. Think of a timeworn wooden table or the soft drape of linen curtains.

The colour palette is typically soft and muted, echoing the landscape: creamy whites, warm yellows, dusty blues, and earthy greens,
